EDITORIAL

Dear Friends and Modelers,

After several years, May is once again the month of the MiGs, but in this case, in 1/72nd scale. After a long wait, careful development, preparation and fine-tuning, we are announcing the release of our MiG-21MF in 1/72nd. The design of this kit is an evolution of the larger 1/48th scale kit that was released earlier, but the developments of the seven years that separate the two is naturally evident in its design and concept. This smaller version is simpler as might be expected. We took to heart above all much of the review comments on the Spitfire Mk.IX and VIII regarding complexity and carefully considered every sub assembly, just how complex it can be in order to, on the one hand, preserve a high level of detail, and on the other to make the kit build-friendly. As a result, there are parts of the kit that were assemblies of individual parts that are now one piece. The assembly sequence overall has been simplified. Thanks to this fact, the kit is easier to put together but has been in essence preserved, and in some respects surpasses the details of its larger predecessor. This applies to, for example, cockpit details. Simplified construction is evident in the spine, fin and rudder assemblies. This is similar to the 48th scale kit in that its a sub-assembly, but instead of the three basic and several detail parts of the larger kit, here this is a compact, one piece affair. That in itself will simplify overall construction of the kit. It's similar with the cockpit, intake and nose cone, which is now glued from the outside after gluing and painting of the entire model. The installation of the cone after the assembly of the model allows easier addition of nose weight, although truth be told, no nose weight is required. It's not a tail sitter.

What is perhaps a little more complicated are the offered colour schemes for the kit. We divided the MF version into two individual editions according to the factory where they were built. To separate the two and to allow some overview, we dubbed the version built at Factory No.21 in Gorky (today Nizni Novgorod) and known in Czechoslovakia as 'the Greys' MiG-21MF INTERCEPTOR. The second version, representing those aircraft produced at Factory No.30 in Moscow, will be called MiG-21MF FIGHTER BOMBER. This version we have our own in-house name for since these aircraft served in Czechoslovakia in the well known green and brown paint scheme. This might be understandable, given that trying to follow Soviet designation systems would be an exercise in futility. I admit I still have confusion in my own head as to which version was built where.

Further differences in these versions will be further described on our Facebook page as well as elsewhere. It can be expected that all those who are interested will be very well informed. I must admit to being a bit surprised at the reactions of experts, who during the initiation of the project intensively lobbied for an intense rendition of all details only to complain and criticize that the same things were just minor items. Basically, I would probably agree, and I understand that they feel they lost a good opportunity to school us in their reviews. Well know Gabor has already identified a fault on the vertical tail, so he now has a theme. I think this is so minor as to be unnoticeable. On the other hand, adding the tail section issue he found with his famous intake issue with the MiG-21bis would be kind of a cool idea that may well look good on a t-shirt.

So, today we are releasing the MiG-21MF INTERCEPTOR that represents the airplane built at Gorky, Factory No.21, known in Czechoslovakia as the Greys. This version was less widespread than the green/brown camouflaged aircraft that served in Czechoslovakia and later in the Czech Republic (Slovakia didn't receive any of these aircraft and there were twenty Greys in the Czechoslovak Air Force), in Poland, East Germany, in Bulgaria, Romania and in Mali which bought three aircraft from the Czechs who didn't fly them much and their alternate fate would have been to rot at the end of some runway. This is also the reason why the kit contains no marking option for a Soviet or Russian aircraft. The options include five aircraft from five user nations, the odd man out being Bulgaria. If you are just yearning for a Bulgarian MiG-21, you'll have your chance in two months, when those markings will be included in the Royal Class boxing. One other Czechoslovak Grey will be available to the BFC membership version of this kit. It will be available at www.eduard.cz, from today, along with the basic kit. The BFC offer with the catalog number BFC043 is only available to the BFC.

Turning our attention to accessory items, along with the kit we are releasing a wide sortiment of details, first and foremost in the Brass line. The first of these are being made available now in May along with the first ProfiPACK, and more sets will follow in the following months, I believe that these MiG-21MF kits will be at least as successful as their 1/48th scale predecessors in 2011, where in just the Czech Republic half of the kits produced were sold. The standard is that we sell about a fifth of the kits produced to the home market.

The release progression of other kits will be as follows: in June, we will release the Royal Class kit, which will include a total of twelve marking options, and Greys and camouflaged aircraft will both be represented. The decals will be printed by Cartograf, and as a bonus, the usual photoetching and masks will be complemented by Brassin items, an artwork and an insignia pin. Along with the Royal Class, we will also revive the old Beer Game. Instead of the beer coasters, there will be self adhesive stickers of insignia and national markings. The Royal Class will have its premiere in June at kit Salon Nymburk. For those that can't make, they will have their chance at the After Party, of course at an interesting sale price. We will have a table at this show and it is one of our to do items for this year. Incidentally, we would like to put together a chat session with the event organizers which include a discussion about significant Czech plastic modellers. I hope the venue has a good wifi system in place!

Two months after that, in September, 2018, we will release another ProfiPACK, the MiG-21MF FIGHTER BOMBER, representing aircraft built at Factory Number 30 in Moscow. These were the planes that here were painted in the green/brown camouflage scheme. The schemes will be classic. There will be five and the ones that are certain at this point are Czech, Slovak and Vietnamese. The other two spots are being competed for by Soviet and later Russian, Egyptian and Iraqi schemes. The boxart will be of a Vietnamese airplane.

Another boxing of the MiG-21 can be expected next year with the coming of Weekend kits as well as Limited Edition ones. The latter will feature a mirror image of the one that was featured in 1/48th scale dedicated to the service of the MiG-21MF in the Czechoslovakian, Czech and Slovak Air Forces. At the end of 2019, we are anticipating the ProfiPACK kits of the PF and PFM, which will be incorporated in the Limited Edition kit Silver Arrows, also as seen in the 48th scale version. But that is pretty far off in the future, somewhere mid 2020. So, let's get back to May, 2018.

Another current release with a significant Facebook presence is AFRIKA. This is a 1/48th scale kit in the Limited Edition line. It contains the popular Bf 109F-4 and Bf 109G-2 and is theme oriented towards Luftwaffe units serving in North Africa between 1941 and 1943. That's why the main graphic for this item depicts the Bf 109F-4 flown by the most successful German pilot serving in this theatre of operations, Hans-Joachim Marseille. The markings options offer two Bf 109F-4s, along with a Bf 109G-2 of Lt. Crinius of 3./JG 53 in February, 1943 when his unit was based at Bizert in Tunisia. This is of course a chronological disparity which is not entirely uncommon with the Limited Edition kits but will certainly not be a detraction for the staunch collectors of Eduard Limited Edition kits.

The boxart on the Limited Edition kits are more vectored towards graphic presentation and this is considered above historical accuracy. The markings options offer aircraft flown by well known aces, unit commanders, as well as aircraft flown by lesser known pilots. We assume that there will be those that the two aircraft in the kit will not be enough and so the equivalent Overtree sets are being offered as well. The Africa kit will also have a BFC offering, and this will be a self adhesive sticker of JG27. From today's standards, it's true that this may not be entirely politically correct, and I hope that no activist will stumble on this and condemn it as being an item propagating and supporting...well, you know what I mean. In my view, it is a nice piece depicting an era when the Germans tried to emigrate to Africa and a period of time when even they ran from Africa. More information on these aircraft can be found elsewhere in this newsletter.

Another extremely striking release this month is the re-edition of the Albatros D.V in 1/48th and as a ProfiPACK with a minor change in the decal sheet and schemes as opposed to the first release of this kit. This centres mostly around the colours of the Lozenge pattern. It should be noted that the Albatros D.V is one of the most popular and best sellers of World War One aircraft in our lineup.

Gabor explaining.

The Weekend Line is represented by the Avia B.534 of the first production series in 1/72nd scale.

Among the accessory items, I see a lot of potential for the set for PT-109 from Revell in 1/72nd scale, the PT Boat that was sailed on by President John F. Kennedy at the time of Guadalcanal. Besides that, there are a lot of other interesting little items to be found, too. Also attractive will be the newly designed sets for the A-26B from Revell in 1/48th and for the Pz.IV Ausf.H from Academy in 1/35th, as well as the P-61A from Hobby Boss and F-106A from Trumpeter (both in 1/72nd). We really didn't want to go into these initially, I must admit, but we decided to go with popular demand. I would also like to point out the two sets of MiG-21MF masks in 1/72nd scale. The item with the catalog number CX511 is a classic, standard set and covers coverage of only the outside face of the canopy. CX512 is a TFace item which masks off both the interior and the exterior canopy. Both allow for the masking of the weatherstripping around the canopy frame, which will be a challenge for every modeler, but one well worth the effort.

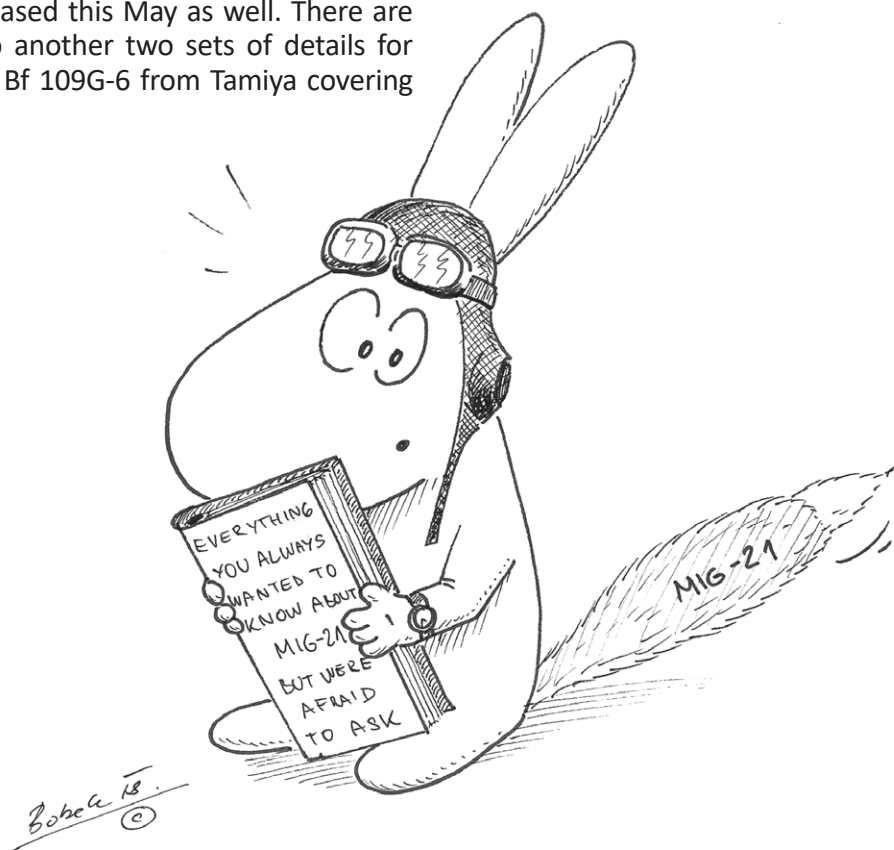

I touched on the Brassin sets for the MiG-21MF above, and I would like to add that this month we are releasing a cockpit set, dubbed 'Cockpit Late', which in this case refers to the Greys and modernised camouflaged aircraft. In July, we will be releasing a 'Cockpit Early', and these will be of the camouflaged aircraft as they were delivered to Czechoslovakia in the seventies. Minor details and variations as aircraft were modernized won't be covered and we will leave that up to the creativity of individual modellers. May's releases also offer wheels, exhausts, weapons pylons and R-3S missiles in two packagings. In the R-3S missiles for MiG-21 1/72nd scale (Cat.No.672185) contain only the missiles and the rails and in the R-3S missiles w/ pylons for MiG-21 1/72nd scale (Cat.No.672186) includes the fuselage and wing pylons. For the MiG-21MF, we are also releasing an individual decal sheet of stencil data for the type. Of the other Brassin sets, I would like to point out the Fw 190A-5 Engine and Fuselage Guns in 1/48th, designed for the kit released this May as well. There are also another two sets of details for the Bf 109G-6 from Tamiya covering the radio compartment and the cockpit. I must point out that this latter set is of the classic Bf 109G-6 armed with 20mm cannon. For Bf 109G-6/U4 aircraft with 30mm weapons we will release a cockpit set in June with the Catalog Number 648411. The Brassin releases this month are rounded up by more sets of bombs. Often we are met with the question as to why we release the bomb sets that we do, and ones that should typically be considered ore interesting by most modellers. It's difficult to answer such a question and the best answer that seems to come to mind is 'because we do'. But to satisfy what is, after all, a reasonable question, I would respond by saying that our goal is to eventually produce kits of all known and used bombs, missiles, training rounds, reconnaissance pods, drop tanks and other such items from various periods throughout aviation history. And in 1/72nd, 1/48th and 1/32nd scales to boot. This might be an ambitious weapons program, maybe as ambitious as the one pursued by Comrade Kim Jong-Un, but it is what it is!

Happy Modelling!

Vladimir Sulc

MOSONMAGYARÓVÁR Model Show 2018

The guys from KPM Kaznějov in great mood.

Jura Bodecek here, the founder of Extratech, now owner and chief of company Boa.

Gabor Szekeres, Well-known MiG expert and the creator of Gabor's nose.

Zbyněk Škopán, a submarine and other „water stuff” expert, a passionate critic of everything and everyone. He says he does not like Eduard, but we like him. We just do not understand how someone who has such a sympathetic wife, can nag so much.

Láďa Eštok, without him, there would be no Eduard website, Facebook nor anything else.

With the flag of the 1st Force Brigade, which occupied the bridge and the bridge suburbs by Arnhem, which was „too far away“. I bought the flag last summer in Arnhem and handed it to him in Moson this year. Moson is really „too far away“ from Arnhem.

Albatros D.V 2065/17, flown by Oblt. Richard Flashar, Jasta 5, Boistrancourt, France, July 1917

Richard Flashar is proof that a good Jasta commanding officer does not necessarily have to a long list of kills to his credit. Flashar achieved only two, but due to his leadership and organizational skills, he commanded the elite Jasta 5 from June 1917 to May 1918, to become the eventual commander of the parent Jagdgruppe 2. The final end of Flashar's aircraft was rather unceremonious. It was borrowed by Hans Joachim von Hippel, who had to put the airplane down in an emergency landing on February 18th, 1918 after losing a portion of the lower left wing in flight.

Aircraft of Jasta 5 carried green tails at this time and the fuselage of Flashar's Albatros was painted in light grey, while the wings were camouflaged in green and purple.

Cat. No. 8113

Albatros D.V, flown by Lt. Georg von Hantelman,
Jasta 15, early 1918

Georg von Hantelmann was born in 1898 and joined the Braunschweiger Hussar Regiment Nr.17 of the imperial Army in 1916, and only a year later he transferred to the air force. After training, he was assigned to Jasta 18, commanded by Rudolf Berthold, with whom he would later go to Jasta 15. His first kill is dated June 6th, 1918, and by the end of the war he would raise that total to twenty-five. On November 3rd, he was nominated for the Pour le Merite. However, the German Emperor would abdicate on November 9th, and so the award was never given. Georg von Hantelmann was murdered on September 7th, 1924 in an attempted robbery at his estate.

According to some sources, the fuselage of Georg von Hantelmann's Albatros was painted red and blue and other researches lean towards an all-black fuselage. The wings and elevators/rudder were covered with a lozenge printed fabric. As a tribute to his service with the Hussars, he had a skull and crossbones painted on his aircraft. This insignia was carried by the regimental Hussars of which von Hantelmann was a member.

Albatros D.Va, 7161/17, Jasta 46, early 1918

The pilot of this aircraft was likely Erich Gurgenz, a native of Berlin who served with Jasta 46 from February 10th, 1918. This airplane fell into the hands of the Allies and was displayed on several occasions. It was restored in 1979 and is displayed at the Smithsonian National Air and Space Museum in Washington DC.

This aircraft carries no camouflage paint on its plywood fuselage and the wings are covered in fabric printed with a lozenge pattern. The tail surfaces carry green and yellow stripes. The colours of the wheel hubs and the spinner have been reported as yellow or green as well.

Bf 109G-2/R1, W. Nr. 10805, flown by Lt. Wilhelm Crinius, 3./ JG 53, Bizerta, Tunisia, January 1943

A native to Hohenhausen, Wilhelm Crinius, joined Luftwaffe in January 1940. After his fighter pilot training in February 1942, he joined 3. Staffel JG 53 and fought in Malta, in the Eastern Front and in the North Africa. On September 23rd, 1942 he was awarded Knight's Cross of the Iron Cross with Oak Leaves for shooting down 100 enemy aircraft. Till January 8th, 1943, he added 14 more shot downs. On January 13th, though, his fortune has changed. His aircraft was hit during the battle with Spitfires near El Kala. Crinius suffered thigh injury and due to the engine fire he was forced to perform a water landing. The next day fishermen saved him. After he recovered, he went to the POW camp. When World War Two came to an end, he worked as a CEO of German subsidiary of Phillips, later as a chairman of the board of Ernst Düllmann GmbH. In 1989 he ran as a candidate of Deutsche Volkunion party for European Parliament. He died on April 26th, 1997 in Stuhr, Lower Saxony.

Crinius' "Gustav", camouflaged in RLM 78/79 paint, had patches and patterns painted in RLM 80. Underneath the fuselage number there is visible repaint of the previous marking, most likely by RLM 78. The rudder bears the painting of the Knight's Cross accompanied by signs of the shot downs.

Bf 109F-4/Trop, W. Nr. 10137, flown by Oblt. Hans-Joachim Marseille, CO of 3./ JG 27, Ain-el-Gazala, Libya, June 1942

Hans-Joachim Marseille, a bearer of the Knight's Cross of the Iron Cross with Oak Leaves, Swords and Diamonds, a fighter ace with 158 shot downs, used this aircraft from June 6th to 18th, 1942. After Marseille's departure for operational leave, the plane remained at 3. Staffel JG 27 and on July 25th, 1942 the Allied raid, aimed at the Turbiya Airport in Egypt, destroyed it. The camouflage consists of a continuous RLM 79 Sandgelb paint on the upper sides and RLM 78 Himmelblau on the undersides, the rudder shows symbols of particular shot downs till that time. The marking of the Luftwaffe aircraft used in the Mediterranean were white wingtips, white propeller spinner and white band ahead of the tail surfaces.

LF Mk.VIII, MD280, flown by F/Lt. Paul Ostrander, No. 155 Squadron RAF, Burma, 1945

Paul Ostrander, a Canadian from Winnipeg, joined No. 155 Squadron in India in May 1944 and flew Spitfire Mk.VIII's from July of the same year and successfully completed his combat tour in May 1945. Ostrander's Spitfire wore white identification stripes on the wings and tail. It is not clear if a white stripe on the fin is present but this stripe would have been part of the prescribed standard. Both possibilities are possible in this kit.

The badge on the nose is based on the Chindits marking – troop units active against the Japanese armed forces in the jungle behind enemy lines.
